

increase. Jones affirmed the chiefs' transparency throughout all discussions regarding the Colorado Springs annexation and stated that the community's best interests have always been paramount to the district. Speaking for all DWFPD career firefighters, Jones declared support for the mill levy proposal and concluded, "Let's get to work."

Hampton, representing the volunteer corps, spoke of the cascading effect that a loss of career firefighters would have on the volunteers. Not only do the volunteers rely heavily on the career staff for training, but any losses in career staff will ultimately require increased numbers of volunteers as well as volunteer hours. Hampton also backed the mill levy proposal. Volunteer firefighter Melissa Seydenberg advocated for the passage of the mill levy increase as well. She thanked DWFPD for the assistance provided to family and friends and attested that the safety of loved ones does not have a price tag.
