

WWSD (Cont. from page 1) said the board would discuss Hindley’s proposal in executive session and address the issue at the next board meeting.

Obtaining better water quality
Julaine and Bill Kennedy, Woodmoor residents for 27 years, spoke to the board about their concerns about water quality. According to the Kennedys, the water in their home smells like spinach, alfalfa, or weeds.

Town said the board reported receiving only 13 complaints so far this year, down from 33 last year. Julaine Kennedy said, “I think I could get you a few more.” The Kennedys notified the district with this same problem last year. They said the problem has only occurred for the past two years. Bill was once a member of WWSD Board of Directors, serving for eight years. Julaine said Bill left because of term limits.

According to District Manager Jesse Shaffer, currently the blend of water is a mixture of 50 percent lake water and 50 percent from underground sources. But for a time in August, WWSD was using 100 percent lake water. Shaffer said “That’s really when the problem became more prevalent.” The source of the smell and taste is probably algae that decompose late in the summer and produce organic compounds in the water. Through current processing, the algae should be removed, but the compounds may remain.

To track down the problem, Shaffer considers the chlorine concentration and the amount of time water is in the pipes between processing and consumption. Shaffer pinpoints where the complaints originate on a map in his office. Color-coded pins represent the time of the complaints. Town asked Lance Nielsen, opera-
