

interfere with what had been approved for the land, and accommodations were being made to ensure the comfort of Preble's mouse communities, including planting bushes and providing leaves. As for questions about whether the current schools would be able to support an influx of students, Cheryl Wangeman, Assistant Superintendent of Operations of Lewis Palmer School District, said there is a plot along Higby for another school, should the need arise.

Commissioner David Gwisdalla motioned to re-evaluate zonings and resume discussions at the next meeting, on Feb. 11. His motion was seconded by Missy Wood, but failed, 4-2 against. John Dick then motioned for approval of Amendment 6, but that came to a 3-3 tie, with Gwisdalla, Wood, and Kathy Spence voting against, so it failed. Finally, Spence moved for approval of the 6th Amendment with conditions, namely that the eastern part of the amendment be split between PRD-4 and PRD-2, to retain some of the original housing structure buyers had expected. This motion passed, 5-1, with Gwisdalla voting against the proposal. He reasoned that there "had to be" a better compromise that would provide for more variety in the area.

This amendment was scheduled to be heard at Monument Board of Trustees Feb. 3.

The next Monument Planning Commission meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 11 at 645 Beacon Lite Rd. Meetings are normally held on the second Wednesday of the month. Information: 884-8017 or <http://www.townofmonument.org/meetings/>

ment of Occupational and Behavioral Health, and will be a for-profit business. Recovery Village operates a similar facility in Umatilla, Fla., for 80 patients. The Palmer Lake Planning Commission unanimously approved Recovery Village's request in an earlier meeting.

The council voted unanimously to approve a new business license for Recovery Village at Palmer Lake, leaving open the possibility of adding a bed tax at a later time to make up for the tax revenue lost due to the closing of the hotel and restaurant.

New business license approved for Bach Crawlers

Pete and Misty Bach requested a new business license for Bach Crawlers, which will be located at 780 Highway 105. Bach Crawlers is a retail and service business focused on Jeeps, 4-by-4s, and other off-road vehicles that has been located in Monument at Monument Village Square for the last three years. Their current location is not large enough for their business. The council voted unanimously to approve a new business license for Bach Crawlers.
