elected to three-year terms by a voice vote in the uncontested director elections.

An interactive poll of audience members asked their opinions on topics ranging from global warming, carbon dioxide emissions, Calhan wind farms (which are not part of MVEA), and community solar gardens, to impressions of service reliability.

The annual report noted that the co-operative has 6,000 miles of energized line and covers 5,000 square miles. The cooperatives' seven districts stretch from Monument and Palmer Lake east to Arriba, Colo. District 7, which includes the Tri-Lakes area, is represented by Donna Andersen-Van Ness, assistant secretary.

Presidential report

Martin's comments included the topics of new rates, capital credits, financial overview, and Operation Round-Up.

He said after a recent cost of service study, the board decided to make some rate changes to minimize subsidies between rate classes and begin to equalize rate of return among all classes, since "all rate classes should contribute to margins." Beginning with the July 1 billing cycle, rates for municipal water pumping, irrigation, and large power will increase. Residential rates will stay the same. In answer to a member's question, he said the Board of Directors is the regulating body and so no public review by membership was required
